

February 2026

Metal Related Price Adjustments

Global metal markets have risen significantly in recent months, resulting in some extraordinary supplier cost increases being passed on to the market.

As many of the products we supply contain copper, aluminium, brass and silver, price adjustments vary depending on material content.

Products with a high metal composition, including copper tube, copper fittings, brazing alloys and electrical cable, are experiencing increases at the higher end of the scale, while products with lower metal content are less affected.

We continue to work closely with our supply partners to mitigate or limit increases and manage costs responsibly. Your continued support during this period of market volatility is appreciated.

